X13-VSA PRO Cobra? How Does It Work?Q: Run RoboVM Launchpad API tests on local machine I've managed to successfully run launchpad tests on my local machine using Robovm 2.6.0. I also have an app that is built in using RoboVM on iOS. I need to be able to check on this iOS app to see if launchpad tests are passing or failing. I know there is an iOS simulator so I was hoping there is a way to run launchpad tests on the iOS simulator. Does anyone know if this is possible? A: You are correct in that there is an iOS simulator. The problem is that you need to pass the build directory as an argument. For example: `./mvn clean install -Piphoneos-build -Diphoneos-build.resourceId=` This will cause the IOS simulator to load the build directory you specified. This answer is based on my RoboVM knowledge and I am not a RoboVM expert. FILED f678ea9f9e
